

The shrine of the sons of al-Awwam

The shrine of the Sons of al-Awwam, is located at the southern end of the town of Habla on the rubbles of archaeological evidence dating back to the Roman and Byzantine periods. The shrine consists of one room with a niche in the facade with a stone dome. This building is preceded by an open yard dedicated to the shrine, which includes seven graves, and it is believed, according to the famous narration, that it belonged to the Mujahideen (resistance fighters) during the fight against the Frankish Crusaders.
